CLINICAL SKILL LAB MODULE FOR PRECLINICAL LAB IN CONSERVATIVE DENTISTRY AND PROSTHODONTICS

CURRICULUM OF SECOND YEAR BDS:

B.D.S. is an undergraduate course for five years duration, of which four years is dedicated for learning theory with clinical skills, one year is for rotatory internship. The curriculum of BDS is being regulated by Dental Council of India. The dental graduates during training in the institutions should require adequate knowledge, necessary skills and reasonable attitudes which are required for carrying out all activities appropriate to general dental practice involving prevention, diagnosis and treatment of anomalies and diseases of the teeth, mouth, jaws and associated tissues. The curriculum has a set of preclinical exercises the student must be well versed with before performing clinical procedures. Preclinical dental education promotes development of competency and expertise before students work on patients, but this phase is devoid of exposure to real patients leading to challenges in teaching- learning.

REPORT ON TRAINING PROGRAMS FOR SIMULATION MODELS

BASIC LIFE SUPPORT BASIC LIFE SUPPORT MODULE

WHAT IS BASIC LIFE SUPPORT?

Basic life support (BLS) is a level of medical care which is used for victims of life-threatening illnesses or injuries until they can be given full medical care at a hospital. It can be provided by trained medical personnel, including certified first responders, emergency medical technicians, and by qualified bystanders.

SOP FOR BLS:

The AHA uses a four-link "chain of survival" to illustrate the steps needed to resuscitate a collapsed victim:

1. Early recognition of the emergency and activation of emergency medical services
2. Early bystander CPR, so as not to delay treatment until arrival of EMS
3. Early use of a defibrillator
4. Early advanced life support and post-resuscitation care Bystanders with training in BLS can perform the first three of the four steps

The AHA-recommended steps for resuscitation are known as DRS CABCADE:

1. Check for Danger
2. Check for a Response
3. Send or shout for help
4. C directs rescuers to first attend to Catastrophic haemorrhage (life-threatening bleeding) and to stop the bleeding if possible.
5. A directs rescuers to open the Airway and look into the mouth for obvious obstruction. Also to apply a 'head-tilt/chin-lift' or 'jaw thrust' to open the airway.
6. B directs rescuers to check Breathing for 10 seconds by listening for breath at the patients nose and mouth and observe the chest for regular rising and falling breathing movements.
7. C directs rescuers to maintain circulation which may be through administration of chest compressions for Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR).
8. D directs rescuers to identify Disabilities (e.g. diabetic or any allergies), Damage (identify broken bones or any minor bleeding), Devices (including use of AED devices available and follow prompts) and Dry (if casualty is very wet, an AED device will pass current through body surface water and will harm the casualty).

Phone : 08472 - 227610, 220222 - Fax : 229687 | albadar_glb@yahoo.com

9. E directs rescuers to take the environment into consideration for weather, location and crowds. If the patient is unresponsive and not breathing, the responder begins CPR with chest compressions at a rate of 120 beats per minute in cycles of 30 chest compressions to 2 breaths. If responders are unwilling or unable to perform rescue breathing, they are to perform compression-only CPR, because any attempt at resuscitation is better than no attempt. For children, for whom the main cause of cardiac arrest is from breathing related issues, 5 initial rescue breaths is highly advised followed by the same 30-2 cycles.

PROCEDURE: Adult BLS sequence: • C-A-B is recommended in the new AHA EU guidelines so as to ensure the blood supply to the vital organs and to prevent degeneration of the brain cells. Keeping these facts as such follow the sequence introduced by AHA guidelines 2010 recommendations C-A-B should be followed in learning and teaching BLS.

- Ensure that the scene is safe.
- Assess the victim's level of consciousness by asking loudly and shaking at the shoulders "Are you okay?" and scan chest for breathing movement visually. If no response call for help by shouting for an ambulance and ask for an AED.
- Assess: If the patient is breathing normally, and pulse is present then the patient should be placed in the recovery position and monitored. Transport if required, or wait for the EMS to arrive and take over.
- If patient is not breathing assess pulse at the carotid on your side for an adult, at the brachial for a child and infant for 6 seconds and not more than 10 seconds; begin immediately with chest compressions at a rate of 30 chest compressions in 18 seconds followed by two rescue breaths in 4 seconds each lasting for 2 second.
- If the victim has no suspected cervical spine trauma, open the airway using the head-tilt/chinlift maneuver; if the victim has suspected neck trauma, the airway should be opened with the jawthrust technique. If the jaw-thrust is ineffective at opening/maintaining the airway, a very careful head-tilt/chin-lift should be performed.
- Blind finger-sweeps are strongly discouraged and should never be performed, as they may push foreign objects further into the airway. This procedure has been discarded from current practice as this may push the foreign body down the airway and increase chances of an obstruction. Continue chest compression at a rate of 100 compressions per minute for all age groups, allowing chest to recoil in between. For adults push up to 2-2.4 inches (6 cm) and for child up to 2 inches (5 cm). For infants 1-1.5 inches (4 cm) or 1/3 of the chest diameter antero-posteriorly.
- Keep counting aloud. Press hard and fast maintaining the rate of at about 100/minute. Allow recoil of chest fully between each compression. In adults, irrespective of the number or rescuers, for every 30 chest compressions give two rescue breaths and in child victim, give 2 breaths per 30 compression if only 1 rescuer is present, but 2 breaths per 15 compressions in case where there are 2 rescuers.
- Continue for five cycles or two minutes before re-assessing pulse.

- Attempt to administer two artificial ventilations using the mouth-to-mouth technique, or a bag-valvemask (BVM). The mouth-to-mouth technique is no longer recommended, unless a face shield is present. Verify that the chest rises and falls; if it does not, reposition (i.e. re-open) the airway using the appropriate technique and try again. If ventilation is still unsuccessful, and the victim is unconscious, it is possible that they have a foreign body in their airway. Begin chest compressions, stopping every 30 compressions, re-checking the airway for obstructions, removing any found, and re-attempting ventilation.
- If the ventilations are successful, assess for the presence of a pulse at the carotid artery. If a pulse is detected, then the patient should continue to receive artificial ventilations at an appropriate rate and transported immediately. Otherwise, begin CPR at a ratio of 30:2 compressions to ventilation's at 100 compressions/minute for 5 cycles.
- After 5 cycles of CPR, the BLS protocol should be repeated from the beginning, assessing the patient's airway, checking for spontaneous breathing, and checking for a spontaneous pulse as per new protocol sequence C-A-B. Laypersons are commonly instructed not to perform re-assessment, but this step is always performed by healthcare professionals (HCPs). If an AED is available it should be activated immediately and its directives followed and (if indicated), call for clearance before defibrillation/shock should be performed. If defibrillation is performed, begin chest compression immediately after shock.
- BLS protocols continue until (1) the patient regains a pulse, (2) the rescuer is relieved by another rescuer of equivalent or higher training (see patient abandonment), (3) the rescuer is too physically tired to continue CPR, or (4) the patient is pronounced dead by a medical doctor or other approved healthcare provider.
- At the end of five cycles of CPR, always perform assessment via the AED for a shockable rhythm, and if indicated, defibrillate, and repeat assessment before doing another five cycles.

DEPARTMENT OF ORAL SURGERY

TOTAL NUMBER OF PARTICIPANTS: 50

Basic implantology course/workshop was exclusively conducted for improving skill and training the students. Dental implants do much more than replace missing teeth. They help maintain and strengthen bone structure, provide the ability to chew healthy food, and give patients the confidence to smile. They also protect existing teeth by helping to preserve bone structure. Hence, sound knowledge about the surgical procedure, case selection, bone anatomy must be known to the clinicians before placement. The key to success of an implant depends on its placement for successful and ease in prosthodontic rehabilitation for the final crown.

The Faculty of Department of oral surgery Dr. Neelkamal Hallur, Dr. Aaisha Siddiqua, Dr. Chaitanya Kothari, Dr. Shereen Fatima & Dr. Ashwin Shah conducted and organized the program.

Summary:

All the participants were taught Basic Life Support (BLS) by hands-on skills sessions using simulations by audiovisual sources, self-directed learning and various interactive activities. The instructions were given by video and slide presentation. The students were then divided into groups for the hand on program. The demonstrations were performed on a mannequin by the instructor. All the students performed the skills on the mannequin and exchanged roles of the resuscitator. The students were exposed to knowledge and skills in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), using AMBU Bag, automated external defibrillators (AED) and relieving airway obstructions in patients of every age. Outcome: The students learnt how to recognize a life-threatening emergency, treat choking or airway obstruction, and provide rescue breathing, cardiopulmonary resuscitation in an emergency medical situation.

REPORT ON TRAINING PROGRAMS IN CLINICAL SKILL LAB/ SIMULATOR CENTRE

REPORT ON TRAINING PROGRAMS FOR SIMULATION MODELS

BASIC LIFE SUPPORT BASIC LIFE SUPPORT MODULE

WHAT IS BASIC LIFE SUPPORT? Basic life support (BLS) is a level of medical care which is used for victims of life-threatening illnesses or injuries until they can be given full medical care at a hospital. It can be provided by trained medical personnel, including certified first responders, emergency medical technicians, and by qualified bystanders.

SOP FOR BLS: The AHA uses a four-link "chain of survival" to illustrate the steps needed to resuscitate a collapsed victim:

1. Early recognition of the emergency and activation of emergency medical services
2. Early bystander CPR, so as not to delay treatment until arrival of EMS
3. Early use of a defibrillator
4. Early advanced life support and post-resuscitation care Bystanders with training in BLS can perform the first three of the four steps

The AHA-recommended steps for resuscitation are known as DRS CABCADE:

1. Check for Danger
2. Check for a Response
3. Send or shout for help
4. C directs rescuers to first attend to Catastrophic haemorrhage (life-threatening bleeding) and to stop the bleeding if possible.
5. A directs rescuers to open the Airway and look into the mouth for obvious obstruction. Also to apply a 'head-tilt/chin-lift' or 'jaw thrust' to open the airway.
6. B directs rescuers to check Breathing for 10 seconds by listening for breath at the patients nose and mouth and observe the chest for regular rising and falling breathing movements.
7. C directs rescuers to maintain circulation which may be through administration of chest compressions for Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR).
8. D directs rescuers to identify Disabilities (e.g. diabetic or any allergies), Damage (identify broken bones or any minor bleeding), Devices (including use of AED devices available and follow prompts) and Dry (if casualty is very wet, an AED device will pass current through body surface water and will harm the casualty).
9. E directs rescuers to take the environment into consideration for weather, location and crowds. If the patient is unresponsive and not breathing, the responder begins CPR with chest compressions at a rate of 120 beats per minute in cycles of 30 chest compressions to 2 breaths. If responders are unwilling or unable to perform rescue breathing, they are to perform compression-only CPR, because any attempt at resuscitation is better than no attempt. For children, for whom the main cause of cardiac arrest is from breathing related issues, 5 initial rescue breaths is highly advised followed by the same 30-2 cycles.

PROCEDURE: Adult BLS sequence: • C-A-B is recommended in the new AHA EU guidelines so as to ensure the blood supply to the vital organs and to prevent degeneration of the brain cells. Keeping these facts as such follow the sequence introduced by AHA guidelines 2010 recommendations C-A-B should be followed in learning and teaching BLS.

- Ensure that the scene is safe.
- Assess the victim's level of consciousness by asking loudly and shaking at the shoulders "Are you okay?" and scan chest for breathing movement visually. If no response call for help by shouting for an ambulance and ask for an AED.
- Assess: If the patient is breathing normally, and pulse is present then the patient should be placed in the recovery position and monitored. Transport if required, or wait for the EMS to arrive and take over.
- If patient is not breathing assess pulse at the carotid on your side for an adult, at the brachial for a child and infant for 6 seconds and not more than 10 seconds; begin immediately with chest compressions at a rate of 30 chest compressions in 18 seconds followed by two rescue breaths in 4 seconds each lasting for 2 second.
- If the victim has no suspected cervical spine trauma, open the airway using the head-tilt/chinlift maneuver; if the victim has suspected neck trauma, the airway should be opened with the jawthrust technique. If the jaw-thrust is ineffective at opening/maintaining the airway, a very careful head-tilt/chin-lift should be performed.
- Blind finger-sweeps are strongly discouraged and should never be performed, as they may push foreign objects further into the airway. This procedure has been discarded from current practice as this may push the foreign body down the airway and increase chances of an obstruction. Continue chest compression at a rate of 100 compressions per minute for all age groups, allowing chest to recoil in between. For adults push up to 2-2.4 inches (6 cm) and for child up to 2 inches (5 cm). For infants 1-1.5 inches (4 cm) or 1/3 of the chest diameter antero-posteriorly.
- Keep counting aloud. Press hard and fast maintaining the rate of at about 100/minute. Allow recoil of chest fully between each compression. In adults, irrespective of the number or rescuers, for every 30 chest compressions give two rescue breaths and in child victim, give 2 breaths per 30 compression if only 1 rescuer is present, but 2 breaths per 15 compressions in case where there are 2 rescuers.
- Continue for five cycles or two minutes before re-assessing pulse.

- Attempt to administer two artificial ventilations using the mouth-to-mouth technique, or a bag-valvemask (BVM). The mouth-to-mouth technique is no longer recommended, unless a face shield is present. Verify that the chest rises and falls; if it does not, reposition (i.e. re-open) the airway using the appropriate technique and try again. If ventilation is still unsuccessful, and the victim is unconscious, it is possible that they have a foreign body in their airway. Begin chest compressions, stopping every 30 compressions, re-checking the airway for obstructions, removing any found, and re-attempting ventilation.
- If the ventilations are successful, assess for the presence of a pulse at the carotid artery. If a pulse is detected, then the patient should continue to receive artificial ventilations at an appropriate rate and transported immediately. Otherwise, begin CPR at a ratio of 30:2 compressions to ventilation's at 100 compressions/minute for 5 cycles.
- After 5 cycles of CPR, the BLS protocol should be repeated from the beginning, assessing the patient's airway, checking for spontaneous breathing, and checking for a spontaneous pulse as per new protocol sequence C-A-B. Laypersons are commonly instructed not to perform re-assessment, but this step is always performed by healthcare professionals (HCPs). If an AED is available it should be activated immediately and its directives followed and (if indicated), call for clearance before defibrillation/shock should be performed. If defibrillation is performed, begin chest compression immediately after shock.
- BLS protocols continue until (1) the patient regains a pulse, (2) the rescuer is relieved by another rescuer of equivalent or higher training (see patient abandonment), (3) the rescuer is too physically tired to continue CPR, or (4) the patient is pronounced dead by a medical doctor or other approved healthcare provider.
- At the end of five cycles of CPR, always perform assessment via the AED for a shockable rhythm, and if indicated, defibrillate, and repeat assessment before doing another five cycles.

Summary: All the participants were taught Basic Life Support (BLS) by hands-on skills sessions using simulations by audiovisual sources, self-directed learning, and various interactive activities. The instructions were given by video and slide presentation. The participants were then divided into groups for the hand on program. The demonstrations were performed on a mannequin by the instructor. All the participants performed the skills on the mannequin and exchanged roles of the resuscitator. The students were exposed to knowledge and skills in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), using AMBU Bag, automated external defibrillators (AED) and relieving airway obstructions in patients of every age. Outcome: The participants learnt how to recognize a life-threatening emergency, treat choking or airway obstruction, and provide rescue breathing, cardiopulmonary resuscitation in an emergency medical situation.
